

Quiet revolution: a triple helix-shaped, vertical axis wind turbine has been unveiled by low carbon design company XCo2. It claims the machine is nearly silent and vibration-free and particularly suitable for urban areas.